HR Solution for Growth

Objective

This attendance policy explains what is expected of employees regarding attendance, punctuality, and the completion of required hours. The goal is to keep daily operations running smoothly, treat everyone fairly, and make sure employee time tracking records are highly accurate for payroll and compliance.

Applicability

This attendance policy for employees applies to all personnel of the organization, including permanent, probationary, and contract staff, unless management explicitly states otherwise. Attendance rules may vary by role, department, or shift, and HR will communicate these differences accordingly.

General Attendance Expectations

Employees are strictly expected to:

- Come to work on time as per their assigned schedule or shift.
- Mark attendance correctly when they start and finish work using the approved HRMS.
- Apply for leave in advance when they are not coming to work.
- Inform their manager as early as possible if they anticipate being absent or late.

If these guidelines are not followed, the absence or delay will be marked as an official attendance issue.

Attendance Recording and Regularization

Employees must mark attendance using the approved tracking system. If a punch is missed, it should be regularized within [Number] days. If not regularized on time, the day will be marked as Loss of Pay (LOP).

Late Arrival and Absenteeism

Coming late often, leaving early, or staying away from work without prior approval will lead to corrective action. Attendance records are reviewed routinely to spot repeated issues. If these problems continue, further disciplinary action will be taken as per company rules.

Responsibility and Enforcement

Employees are fully responsible for marking their attendance correctly. Managers and the HR department are responsible for checking attendance, approving regularization requests, and making sure attendance rules are applied consistently across the entire organization.

Policy Review and Amendments

The organization reserves the right to amend this attendance management policy to reflect changes in business needs, statutory labor requirements, or operational processes. Any updates will be communicated to all employees in a timely manner.
